

Customer Solutions Developer

To lighten the text, the masculine prevails but is used without regard to gender.

Objectif Lune is seeking for a web enthusiast ready to match both his front and back-end development skills to his customer-oriented approach to become a power user of our software tool box and deliver innovative turnkey solutions to end users.

If you want to play a key role in a team that daily performs small miracles (yes we do!) and are eager not to fall into the monotony by leading a wide variety of projects, you may be the one we are looking for.

What you will be doing

- Develop turnkey solutions with Objectif Lune's software suite.
- Determine the best approaches and methods to implement web solutions.
- Provide analysis, draft and review scopes of work.
- Participate in the projects kick-off calls to validate the requirements and ensure a clear understanding of roles and expectations.
- Gather all elements required for the success of the project.
- Ensure regular follow-ups with the stakeholders.
- Control the quality of the solutions before their go live.
- Implement solutions on site and ensure proper operation.
- Train users on the developed solutions.
- Suggest improvements to methods and processes, and promote the exchange of ideas and the knowledge transfer within the team.
